1. Objectives of the Conference

The main motivation for this conference is three-fold:

- i) To provide a forum for the sharing of information regarding new innovations and best practices in the ICT, geospatial information and technology fields which can be of assistance in helping African countries to achieve the Sustainable Development Goals.
- ii) To provide an environment in which geospatial professionals and other practitioners can develop new, or expand existing contact networks so that the influence of the conference can 'live on' beyond the conference itself.
- iii) To identify realistic, implementable steps in the geoscience and related fields which can be taken by African countries and international organisations to help advance the achievement of the Sustainable Development Goals in Africa. Who needs to do what, when and how are key questions in this regard.

2. Conference Venue

The venue for the conference is Kigali Conference and Exhibition Village (KCEV), located in the centre of Kigali city, in Nyarugenge district at KN 3 Ave.

3. Accessibility to the Conference Venue

The venue is located in the center of Kigali City, close to most well-known hotels, 650 m from Marriott Hotel Kigali, and 350 m from Serena Hotel. The venue is also located within walking distance from a number of hotels and other accommodation facilities as listed in section 8. Other means of accessing the venue include general taxi transport, moto taxi transport or by bus.

4. Rwanda at a Glance

4.1. Weather

The country is located between 1 and 2 degrees South of the Equator and with much of the country lying at altitude, Rwanda enjoys an agreeable tropical highland climate.

Temperatures vary considerably between locations but vary little from month to month. Peak temperatures rarely exceed 30°C (86°F) in the daytime or drop below 15°C (59°F) at night. The Eastern province is generally the warmest and the Northern highlands Virunga are the coolest parts of the country. The average daily temperature in Kigali is 21°C (70°F). There are two rainy seasons in a year; the first one from mid-February to May and the second one from mid-September to mid-December. The dry season is from June to mid-September. During the dry season, light cloud cover can be seen very few days, and occasional light rainfall can be experienced. The roads and paths tend to be easier to navigate in this period.

4.2. Terrain

Known as the land of a thousand hills, Rwanda has 5 volcanoes, 23 lakes and numerous rivers. The country covers an area of 10,169 square miles or 26,338 square kilometres.

Much of the country lies at elevations between 1,500 m and 2,500 m above mean sea level. The highest peak is Mount Karisimbi with at 4,507 m of elevation, and the lowest point is the Rusizi River at located at 950 m above sea level.

The terrain is often uneven and sensible shoes are essential.

4.3. Time Zone

Rwanda is located at 30 degrees in the East of the Greenwich Prime Meridian. Hence, the country's time zone is GMT/UTC + 2 hours.

4.4. Official Languages

The country has three official languages: Kinyarwanda, English and French. The majority of the Rwandan population speak Kinyarwanda, and the majority of educated people speak all the three languages.

4.5. Population

The Rwandan population is currently about 13 million people. The physical population density of the country was 415 persons per km² while the physiological population density (country's land area excluding the water surface) was about 441 inhabitants per km².

4.6. Currency and Money

The Rwandan franc (Frw) is the principal currency, although US dollars are widely accepted. You can expect to pay for local services in cash, in Rwandan francs. The greater the amount, the more likely US dollars or other hard currencies are preferred.

Currently, a growing number of places accept credit and debit cards, with Visa card being more widely accepted than Mastercard. It's best to check when making a booking. ATMs can be found in Kigali and nearly in all major cities, and the majority of the ATMs accept the Visa card for money withdrawal operations. The ATMs normally work 24/7.

Cash can be exchanged at banks and private forex bureaus (bureau de change). However, they are both closed on Sundays and public holidays.

It may be impossible to exchange traveler's cheques away from the capital. Western Union facilities are common.

Tipping is discretionary and appreciated. Cash is usually preferred. As a rough guide, tip professional guides and drivers US $10 per day, trekking porters US $2.

5. Travel to Rwanda

Rwanda has two international airports: Kigali International Airport (the main and mostly used one) and Kamembe International Airport (mainly for neighbouring countries flights). Kigali International Airport is serviced by a number of airlines including: RwandAir, Kenya Airways, Ethiopian Airlines, Brussels Airlines, KLM, Qatar Airways and Turkish Airlines. Moreover, helicopter transfers within Rwanda are available through Akagera Aviation. Kamembe International Airport has scheduled flights.

RwandAir's young and state of the art fleet flies to an increasing number of cities within Africa, Asia, the Middle East, Europe and the United States. London, Brussels and Dubai flights are on an Airbus A330, which features onboard wifi, Premium Economy and flat-bed seats in Business Class. A hub at the heart of Africa, Kigali International Airport serves tourism, the export of goods and is transforming Kigali into a trade and logistics platform.

From Kigali International Airport to different destinations in Rwanda, there are different transport options including shuttle services offered by a number of hotels (see accommodation section), general taxi services, and motorbike taxi transportation service. The latter is only available out of the airport bounds.

6. Local Transport

Rwanda has an active local transportation system and network. Kigali city operates a number of transportation companies. To travel by bus in Kigali requires a card known as "Tap and Go" card, where the passenger needs to top up the amount on the card depending on the length of the journey. The transportation companies' agents are on a large number of bus stations to help the passengers to top up their cards when needed.

Moreover, other transportation options including general taxi and motorbike taxi transportation are also available in all corners of the city. Recently, Yego Innovation has launched Yego Cabs: a network of taxi transportation cabs which can be called on hotline: 9191 and a taxi cab located on the proximity of the passenger will be available at the passenger's service.

7. Health

The greatest health risks in Rwanda are accidents and malaria. Much of Rwanda lies at too high an elevation for malaria to be a major concern, however, the disease is present and prophylactic drugs are recommended. You are advised to seek professional medical advice on taking anti-malarial medicines and take precautions to avoid mosquito bites, especially between dawn and dusk.

You are advised to ensure you are up to date with vaccinations, following the advice of their local healthcare provider, and should consider bringing a small first aid kit. A certificate of yellow-fever vaccination is required.

It is advisable not to drink tap water. Bottled mineral water can be bought in all towns – make sure the seal is intact.

As a small country, medical help is rarely far away. For basic treatment most towns of any size have pharmacies with a limited range of medicines, while larger towns have hospitals. King Faisal Hospital (<https://oshenkfh.rw/>) in Kigali is the most advanced in Rwanda.

In case of medical evacuation, Akagera Aviation operates a helicopter ambulance service within Rwanda in daylight hours, with one military paramedic on call. Please make sure you have adequate medical insurance.

Due to the risks of passing on human colds or other illnesses to primates, it is essential that you are in good health if you want to see them.

Access to Medical Support during the Conference

There are a number of health facilities in the neighbourhoods of the conference venue. Importantly, there is 24/7 operational clinic within the compounds of the University of Rwanda, where primary medical care can be sought. Moreover, the University Teaching Hospital of Kigali (CHUK) is located in about 200 meters from the venue. CHUK is one of the main national referral hospitals in Rwanda, and it is existed to find most of the medical needs at the hospital. More details about the hospital can be found on their website: <http://chuk.rw/>. Other clinics in the neighbourhoods of KCEV include Medical Centre Baho, located in about 300 m from the conference venue, Polyclinique du Plateaux (<https://polycliniqueduplateau.rw/>) which is located in about 600 m from the conference venue, and Ejo Heza Surgical Centre, located in about 1.5 km from the conference venue.

Moreover, a number of pharmacies are located in the neighbourhoods of the conference venue, and they include: Pharmacie conseil (<https://www.pharmacieconseil.org/>), Kipharma Pharmacy, Pharmedica and many more.

As a country striving to protect, safeguard and promote the environment – the matter is written into the country’s constitution and is carefully observed by all citizens, who participate in a community service called Umuganda on the last Saturday of every month.

We respectfully request that all the people coming to Rwanda help us to keep Rwanda the cleanest country in Africa, and dispose of all litter responsibly.

Power plugs and outlets Rwanda

The outlets and plugs used in Rwanda are mainly two pins (type C or J). You can take a look at the pictures below to see how each plug and socket type looks. However, type C is the most dominant in the majority of the places. Nevertheless, the adapters and power extensions are also available in case of need. The standard voltage is 230 V and the standard frequency is 50 Hz.

13. Weather and What to Wear

In Rwanda, dress codes are informal yet respectful. Men tend to wear trousers but shorts are fine, although walking around without a shirt is frowned upon. Women will feel more comfortable in knee-length or longer.

Daytime temperatures are generally warm, so bring lots of light clothing and think about sun protection, including a hat and sunglasses. The evenings tend to be cool, and a light sweater is appreciated.

As the conference will take place in November, which is normally a rainy season in Rwanda, slightly heavier clothing is useful. A lightweight waterproof jacket may come in handy in the moist mountains (in case you happen to be in Northern or Western parts of the country).

Also, given the fact the climate of Rwanda which attracts mosquitoes, especially in Eastern parts of the country, please take sensible precautions against mosquitos and other bites, and always sleep in a mosquito net.

For those who wear contact lenses, cleaning fluid is not readily available and dust or sun could prove an irritation, so it's best to bring a pair of glasses along for peace of mind.

14. Connectivity

Rwanda has an excellent mobile phone network covering almost the entire country, and international calls can be made easily. Local SIM cards are readily available everywhere, even in remote towns. There are two providers – MTN and Airtel-Tigo. Mobile phones can be purchased or rented from major shops in Kigali. Rwanda is among the top three African countries in terms of internet connectivity, with an ever-growing fibre optic network. There is high speed 4G LTE wireless broadband in major cities. Most towns have several internet cafes and wifi is available in higher end hotels.

15. Security

Rwanda ranks the second safest country in Africa. It is normal to find people walking in the streets of Kigali city even during night hours. However, we advise the participants not to be out alone after 21:00. Also, it is advised to follow and respect the security guidelines and regulation of the hotel where the participants will be staying.

Moreover, looking at the security at the conference venue, the University of Rwanda has 24/7 security, and every effort will be made to ensure the security of participants' items, especially the exhibits. Nevertheless, the University declines responsibility for any loss or damage which may occur, including responsibility for the security of an exhibition stand, its exhibits and contents as well as personal belongings. You are urged to take care of your own belongings. In our experience, cell phones, briefcases, cameras and handbags are most at risk. Carry these items with you at any time.
